

YOUR HIDDEN POWERS

MAIDS AND MATRIMONY
An inquiry showed that more than half of the girls in the University of Wisconsin would be glad to marry if the husband earned $2500 a year, but some of them daringly announced their intention to remain single and there were a few who would not care the star on an income of less than $10,000 a year. One maid held out strong for $50,000. She may yet marry a hostler and have her wish. It was found, however, that, even in a crowd of college girls, matrimony is considered the natural career of a woman. Even a girl of not more than 17 gentle summers will march up to the altar with a calm and untroubled visage.

By comparing the Greek inscriptions on the now famous Rosetta stone with the hieroglyphics alongside them Champollion unraveled the Egyptian system in writing in terms of phonetic signs. Incidentally he was able to do this because the names Cleopatra appeared several times on the stone, making it possible for him to check up on his brilliant guesses.

At the height of his labor, weak from undernourishment and overstrain, he suffered an injury which hastened his death. A heavy slab, covered with data relative to Cleopatra and her court, toppled over on him. Shortly thereafter he died.

Thus Egypt has ever taken toll of her conquerors. Cleopatra was no exception.

One good result of the present coal strike is that it lasts long enough some of the strikers may find jobs in other lines of employment and decide to leave the coal industry forever. So far there is no indication of a coal famine. There are enough non-union men at work to take care of existing demands. The output of bituminous coal last year was more than 5,000,000 tons which takes care of existing contracts. The public does not seem to have anything to warrant worrying about except the possibility of troubling operators and dealers using such opportunity as the strikers may afford them to boost the price of big diamonds to the consumer. Thus far there has been nothing to really justify any advance in coal prices. It is a good time to place orders and make contracts.

under the influence of sun and moisture, sprout and grow. We may analyze that seed, but we cannot point out the vital principle in it; yet it is there to manifest itself under favorable conditions. The soil which was bare and frozen is teeming with life, and the resurrection. It is a process which involves no greater marvel than that which shall live again than we witness in the spring revivification of nature. It is in harmony with the Christian observation of the Resurrection that Easter should be celebrated in the vernal season and its meaning be exemplified all around us. Thus is faith and hope reinforced by manifestations in the material world. If plant life revives from winter's frosts, it is no greater strain on faith to believe that one who passes from earth will live again.—[AR.]

of justice, but the thrill of being an actor in the wonderfully dignified little courtroom in Washington is gone.

If John Doe dies—Chief Justice Taft suggested that it was about time—Richard Roe will go with him. Let them have a corner in the Valhalla of those that never were. It is pleasant to fancy Doe and Roe swapping tales of wild legal adventure with their literary cousins, Didd and Anon.—[New York Herald.]

Fresno Man Says Sun Maid President Hit Him

Fruit Grower Exhibits Cuts After Fight

Battle Staged in Office of the Association

(Exclusive Service.)

FRESNO, June 19. — Knocked through a plate-glass window this morning, A. L. Babcock, former member of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Association, immediately sought a warrant through the District Attorney's office charging with Mr. Giffen, president of the Sun Maid Association, with having assaulted him.

Exhibiting an arm and leg, both severely cut, and a bloody coat, Mr. Babcock declared that Mr. Giffen had struck him, throwing him on the floor and ejecting him through the plate-glass window in the private office of Mr. Giffen. The battle, according to Babcock, took place within full view of Mr. Giffen's office force.

Detailed action in the case is held up by Mr. Babcock, who said he would credit the verdict of his attorney, James P. Swenson, of San Francisco, who is understood to be on his way to Fresno to consult with Babcock with regard to a suit for $50,000 damages.

DECLINES TO TALK

Attempts to interview Mr. Giffen about the affair brought the answer, "I have nothing to say." From him. He refused to discuss the affair in any manner.

According to Babcock, the fight occurred when he went to the office of Mr. Giffen to seek postponement of a foreclosure action on a fifty-acre plot of raisin and orange grove near Hanford, in which Babcock says he has a $25,000 equity. The mortgage, which Babcock alleges Giffen purchased from a Sacramento bank, was foreclosed today at 10 a.m.

"I went to Mr. Giffen's office to discuss the matter with him and seek postponement of the sale on the grounds that I was hard pressed for money," Mr. Babcock said. "He accused me of being crooked with the raisin company. I told him he was crooked with it himself."

TEARS OF FROTH

Then Mr. Giffen ordered me out of his office. I said I would go, but before I could rise out of my chair, he was upon me, knocking me and the chair over on the floor. Before I could regain my feet, he lunged on me again, and I had no opportunity to escape. I called to him to get my hat, and I would go out, and he knocked me through a plate-glass window.

"After talking the matter over with the District Attorney, who said he would issue a warrant at any time, I decided not to compromise the case with criminal action, and will see through my attorney, damages to the amount of $50,000."

"He was the first to attack me when I went to his office this morning," Babcock continued, "and I wish it made clear that I went to his office merely to get an extension of the mortgage on the Hanford property."

A surgeon dressed four severe cuts on Babcock's leg, and another on his knee cap, which Babcock said he received in the fight with Mr. Giffen.

Masons' Lodge Will Conduct Wood Funeral

Masonic funeral services under the auspices of Southern California Lodge, No. 378, F. and A. M., will be conducted today at 3 p.m. from Pierce Brothers' chapel for Francis Gideon Wood, retired Los Angeles merchant, who died Saturday at a private sanatorium in Pasadena.

Mr. Wood was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1874, and prior to locating in California was in business in Denver, moving to California in the spring of 1899, when he became connected with the firm of House-Bradford Company. He later was appointed traveling representative for Southern California for the D. N. and E. Walter & Co. of Los Angeles, where he later served as manager for sixteen years.

Mr. Wood was a member of the First Methodist Church and a thirty-second-degree Mason, Los Angeles Commandery No. 3. Besides the widow, Mrs. C. Wood, leaves two daughters, Winifred Emily and Francis Ruth Wood of 124 West Holman avenue, Alhambra. Burial will be in Inglewood Cemetery.

HOSPITAL TO BENEFIT

Friends of Elmer Will Go to Aid Crippled Children

A dinner for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Guild will be given at the First Congregational Church Thursday at 6 p.m. The proceeds will be turned over to the Orthopedic Hospital to be used in the clinic for the little out-patients, hundreds of whom have to be turned away for lack of funds. A program of absorbing interest, a feature of which will be a spelling bee, will follow the dinner. More than forty of the best spellers in the church, including the pastor, Dr. Carl E. Patton, have agreed to line up and take their chances on the most difficult and punishing words to be found in Webster's unabridged. The public is invited to help out the dinner, to witness the humiliation of the spellers in the contest, to enjoy the evening and incidentally to help those handicapped little ones to run the race of life.

Apartment-House Lessees Need This Protection

Suppose you hold a lease on an apartment-house, for which you have paid, say $20,000 cash and a monthly rental of $600 per month. You would probably take out fire insurance on your furniture and fixtures to the amount of about $5000.

This would leave $15,000 of your investment unprotected. In case of fire, it might easily be a total loss.

Leasehold Insurance protects you against this hazard. In case of fire, you will receive compensation for losses sustained while the building is being repaired or rebuilt.

Call at our office for the details.

HER NEW GOWN!

Jack, it's come!
Huh! What's come?
Gee! My new gown, of course. You know, I've been expecting it for two days. Mma. Casey promised it last Wednesday. I've been at the telephone ever since calling her up.

I bet you have!
I wouldn't have got it for another week if I had let her alone. Now I'm going to put it right on and wear it over to the Camille dinner.

Thank!
Yes, you'll have to look it up—and you needn't look so depressed, either. If we had a servant I wouldn't have to trouble you.

Hold on! Don't go over all that again. Just let me know when you're ready for help. In the meantime I'll dress myself.

J—o—o!
Yes, I'm ready now.

Great! Casey's gown, you made me spoil this tie. I was just getting it right, too.

Never mind the tie. Now look the gown over carefully, before you begin. And remember, this material is very thin. If you pull and haul as you did last Monday night you will tear the dress to pieces.

Great! Good, where does the thing hang, anyway?
Of course, there are Jack, you make me so nervous! Why—so there aren't. She must have forgotten them. Well, pin it there with a little safety pin—and for goodness sake don't let the pin show. Uch!

How can I do anything if you don't stand still! Think this is a fox trot?

Jack! Meaning, you've got this all crooked!
I've got it the way it's made. Where does this side go?

Why—over right here on the left. I think. No, let me see. That must go under the arm. Try it that way.

Edith! She said some blue prints along? We need 'em. This can't be right. Or has she left off all the places for the snaps. No, here are some places, but no where to go in 'em. Carrie, this dress isn't half finished!

Of course, it's finished. If I had three hands and some eyes in the back of my head, I could show you where everything goes. As it is, you must use some intelligence.

Talk about Chinese puzzles—will you stand still!

You're making me so nervous I can't stand still. Please don't tear that flap!

Well, where the devil does it go? The snaps on it don't come within two inches of the right place. Then you've got the wrong flap. Try this one—and for heaven's sake hurry. We're late now.

If you don't hurry, I'll be crazy!

SHERMAN, June 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I was glad to see that somebody was brave enough to make a protest against the extortionate admission fee for the Robin Hood tournament. But, after all, the protesting shriner was lucky. He can congratulate himself. He wouldn't be duped. There was no tournament. You stood up in a crowd and tried to catch a long shot (extremely long) of a company of men at arms entering the castle by way of the drawbridge. A Cordy Language
In one of the palatial homes of the new rich, a man sat before a blazing fire, a cigar between his teeth, a liqueur at his elbow. His friend sat opposite, likewise fortified.

The host was bewailing the enormous cost of keeping his son at college.

"Such expense!" he cried. "And the worst of all are the languages."

"Languages?" repeated his friend. "How's that?"

"Well," said his host, "there is one item in the bill which runs, 'For Scotch, $250.'"

W. A. W.

Answer: If in a race the wagers on all the horses total $10,000 and of this sum $1000—the equivalent of 1000 $1 tickets—was wagered on the winner, the value of a $1 ticket would be determined by deducting from $10,000 the $1 per cent commission for the association, or $100, which gives $9,900.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB AROUSED

Members, Deride Speaker in Wright Bill Debate

Remarks on Prohibition Meet With Their Disfavor

Hot Passage at Arms Feature of Meeting

BY MYRA NYE
"Back to the Wright Bill!"
"Play ball!"

No, it was not a baseball game with calls from the bleachers. It was the meeting of the Woman's City Club yesterday which drew from the large audience of women. In spite of the rising red mercury, the hall and outside members, dressed in their most diaphanous gossamer, did not hesitate to make it hot for one of the speakers, Mr. Harry Ryan, who represented the American Federation of Labor in a debate on the Wright bill. His took the negative side while Dr. Clifford Gordon of Australia spoke for its passage when it comes up as a referendum measure at the election in November.

WAX BAROASTO
It is evident that so much feeling is manifest in this active club as was shown in this session. The audience listened to the affirmative side quietly, interrupting only with applause. Mr. Ryan, however, was interrupted repeatedly, and all of the questions at the close of the debate were asked of him, the majority of them with sarcastic emphasis.

Mr. Ryan began with a bitter tirade against the decision of the Supreme Court, which declared the child labor law unconstitutional. "Then came the call from the audience 'Back to the Wright Bill! Mr. Ryan, subject just once.'" When the opportunity presented, Mrs. E. V. Davis, one of the most dignified members of the club, and a worker in the W.C.T.U., arose and said with intense feeling, "We regret deeply that there is child labor in our land, but we would not be true to ourselves, nor our principles if we let pass without protest this contemptuous reference in the highest courts of our land."

GALLS BILL DISHONEST
Mrs. Davis's statement received prolonged applause. Dr. Len Hutchins here interjected, "And I would like to ask Mr. Ryan to tell us why the Supreme Court declared that law unconstitutional. We all know that Chief Justice Taft has worked against child labor and has spoken against it. Is it not true that the decision was not one of the merit or demerit of child labor, but of the rights of States? The Supreme Court is not executive, nor is it legislative, it merely makes legal decisions. I don't know," said Mr. Ryan. "But I do know it is the duty of every citizen to criticize and object to the decisions of the Supreme Court, even the President of the United States. That's what I thought this meeting was for—to criticize and to say what we think." A wave of dismayed expression ran over the audience. A few women applauded.

"The Wright bill is dishonest," continued Mr. Ryan. "There are more moonshiners, more bootleggers and more drunks in the country since prohibition came in than ever before, in spite of the statistics the gentleman from Australia gave, which are all lies."

DOUBTS STATISTICS
"No, no, no," came the cry. "If he wanted honest statistics why didn't he come to the American Federation of Labor," said Mr. Ryan. The tension broke here with prolonged laughter from the women.

Mr. Gordon replied: "I've got ten months more to get statistics and maybe I will come to the federation."

Some one from the floor asked for permission to say that the statistics which had upheld prohibition as a success were found in the Congressional records and she gave the number in which they appeared.

One of the sweeping statements of the negative speaker, which the affirmative speaker said were not according to the rules of debate and "un-American" was: "The law is no good. Police are no good, authority is no good. The law deprives the citizen of his freedom. As long as women stay away from their homes, of course, the world will go to the bad and their husbands will drink and there will be crime."

One of the few men in the audience called out: "What's that assault to women?"

SPEAKER DERIDED
"I tell you," said Mr. Ryan, with wide gestation, "the Wright bill stabs at liberty. There is a lot of noble citizens demanding light beer and wine. They will not be denied."

"But they've got it," answered Mr. Gordon. "One-half of 1 per cent. What could be lighter?"

"Prohibition has failed," declared Mr. Ryan, disregarding the interruption. "Idiot, blindness and"

SUGGESTIONS FOR THOSE WHO HAVE HEART DISEASE

(Note: This article, as well as the article yesterday on heart disease, is taken from a lecture syllabus on heart disease issued by the Association for the Prevention of Heart Disease, New York City.)

No matter how well you feel, have a careful examination by a physician at least once in six months in order that any changes may be early discovered and suggestions made for meeting your condition before the damage becomes more serious.

Your physician will advise you to how much exercise you should take. Some do best with a very limited amount of activity, others can take a reasonable amount of physical exertion with benefit.

Choose your amusements and work with a view to these limitations. Try to avoid situations which are likely to induce emotional excitement. Such occasions temporarily disturb the heart action and in a damaged heart may produce permanent injury.

Spend not less than two hours out of the twenty-four in bed, and secure short periods of rest during the day.

Get a vacation regularly. Eat simple plain food, not too much and not too little. Keep your weight normal for your height and age. Do not allow yourself to become undernourished. (The emphasis on this is mine—L. H. P.)

Drugs should be taken only under the advice of a physician. The majority of those having organic heart disease need drugs only on rare occasions. If you get any little infection such as a "cold" or a "sore throat" take good care of yourself and have good medical advice. These small infections are of more serious importance than those with normal hearts. Live hygienically, sleep with your windows open. Avoid extremes of heat and cold as well as possible.

Crime has increased because of prohibition. Prohibition has failed, I say.

"Not yet, not yet," came the shouts from the women. "I wish I had three hours to speak," said Mr. Ryan.

"Twenty minutes is more than enough," came from the audience. Throughout the debate Mrs. William F. Cunningham, the newly elected president "kept her head" in a striking way. Mr. Ryan was slightly off and asked it to repeat all the questions and answers. In making her closing announcements she said, "I have appointed a committee on law enforcement whose duty it is to investigate concerning blind pigs and the illegal selling of liquor. I request that those who make acquaintance of Mr. Ryan, who seems to know more about this than anyone I have met."

Virginia Burton Bradley
The death of Mrs. E. R. Bradley, which occurred at her summer home in Hesperia, Calif., on Sunday, the 18th inst., removed one of the most loved and interested workers in the Friday Morning Club. Because of illness during the past year, Mrs. Bradley left active work to others, yet kept in close touch and manifested her interest in the work of the club.

She was the daughter of a charter member of the club, the late Mrs. M. Burton Williamson, and a graduate of the State Normal School, now the University, Southern Branch, also a graduate of the University of Southern California. She was a member of the Woman's Press Club and the Verse Writers' Club. Mrs. Bradley was a woman of unusual charm and of enviable gift, possessing a command of language with original poetic expression.

A devoted husband, Dr. E. R. Bradley, a daughter Gertrude, and two sisters, Misses Lillian and Editha Williamson, are left to mourn the loss. Funeral services will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, in the chapel of the Connell Company.

The Channel Club
First of all the women's clubs in America to inform any candidate for political office is the Channel Club, organized for expression of the fine arts. Bailey (Theresa Gogswell), Mrs. Dora Holmes, a member and retiring president of the Woman's City Club, who is an aspirant for a seat in the State Assembly from the Seventy-second District, was unanimously endorsed and the entire membership of the Channel Club constituted themselves as her speakers committee.

Officers elected for the coming year include: President, Mrs. W. H. Hunsacker; vice-president, Mrs. Blanche Morgan; secretary, Mrs. Frederick West; and treasurer, Mrs. Dora Holmes.

Business was transacted at the luncheon table and the program was given in the drawing-room. Katherine Eastman of Atlantic Coast fame, was introduced to the audience by the hostess and gave readings from her own books. Miss Eastman has been associated with the Redpath Bureau, is vice-president of the International Arts Association and has won success as a fiction writer.

Others who appeared upon the program were: Mrs. Blanche Morgan, who has just returned from Europe and gave her impressions of Paris, Rome and London, and Miss Eleanor Warren, pianist.
